

THE RUDOLPH HESS STORY... Just one silly adventure after another? Only the Goths are capable of such stupidity... After Dunkirk (1940) the Hitler Cabinet still thought they could negotiate with the British.

Rudolf Hess, Vice Fuehrer (1933-1941); for 8 long years he was No. 2 Man... Christ... note those killer eyes; maybe, just maybe, Cesare Lombroso was right, at the turn of the 19th-20th century Italian criminologist—that certain features or cosmetics of the subject's anthropology or physical make-up do indicate criminal tendencies, perhaps of that whole sub-breed of Man now monopolizing both the 20th and so far 21st century power politics of civilized Man, but these are the last days of the Gothic cavalcade; the Anglo-Saxon state model is moribund for its overextension of resources, innate aggression, behavioral deviance and outright abuses against Human Rights and Human Condition generally by illegally prosecuting its so-called National Security self-assumed rights beyond the 3-12 mile limit according to the traditional Law of the Sea.

We just cannot acculturate the Germanic Oriental Ruling Elite west of the la Manche; they're genetically aggressive, hence social recidivists...

Hess' attempt to negotiate peace, privately ordered by Hitler, imagine just over a month prior to the German attack - OPERATION BARBAROSSA - on the Soviet Union June 22, 1941, despite the 1939 non-aggression pact with Stalin; Hitler was afraid of the American-British sentiment to jump in the fry, hence the Third Reich, in the name of No. 2, was offering peace to the Anglo-Saxon Western most brethren.

Of course, it didn't work that way; there was no intelligence preparation for the obvious putsch, hence the British took it wrong; nor would they have accepted peace with Reich at any cost.

THAT was Hess's motivation for flying to Scotland in advance of the war to protect their Atlantic Wall hindsides from a British-American attack, while getting ready for the pre-emptive coup de grace on Russia. Of course, the British didn't buy it... A review of Moscow files on Hess, delivered to the Kremlin by the 5 British turncoats, confirm that Hess confessed to the British... Nor has the MI-5 or MI-6 ever cared to come clean and give away Roger Hollis (1905 - 1973) as the 5th man, which he was in fact successfully right into his retirement and death, as head of MI-5, while the art critic and curator of the Queen's art collection, Anthony Blunt, whose evaluation of the works of art I still admire, remained in her service until an eventual disclosure that he too was a turncoat, the 4th man... Those are the kind of problems we experts face with the British-American Germanic backgrounds, i.e. they can never-ever come clean, because their genetic make-up cannot acculturate, or never totally; deviance remains a part and parcel of the Anglo-Saxon behavioral origin!

Nevertheless, the subsequent lifelong imprisonment gave rise to many theories about his motivation for flying to Scotland, and conspiracy theories about why he remained imprisoned alone at Spandau, long after all other convicts had been released. . . The Kremlin was right about keeping the man imprisoned for life, who risked his life for a Hitler's ploy; they knew the truth, while the British intelligence kept it secret to this day, the incomprehensible behavioral whims, whittles and whangs of the Anglo-Saxon lot in our midst. That's the kind of morality we're dealing with to this very day, stonewalling replete! We've been facing a formidable foe destroying WesternCiv!!

PS. On 10 May 1941, at about 6:00 PM, Hess took off from Augsburg in a Messerschmitt Bf 110, and Hitler ordered the General of the Fighter Arm to stop Hess (squadron leaders were ordered to scramble only one or two fighters since Hess's particular aircraft could not be distinguished from others). Of course, that was a ploy, a cover-up... Hess parachuted over Renfrewshire, Scotland on May 10, 1941, and landed (breaking his ankle) at Floors Farm near Eaglesham. In a newsreel clip, farmhand David McLean claims to have arrested Hess with his pitchfork. . .
