

AL GORE'S asinine statement?

The final note on Kennan and his legacy would be this point recently made by the former U.S. Vice President, a typical ongoing anti-Russian sentiment:

"Make no mistake: The stirrings in Congress and elsewhere of a new isolationism are very real. These new isolationists--some outspoken, some soft-spoken--seek nothing less than to impede President Clinton's ability to defend American interests and values. If left unchallenged, their efforts, in the end, may well lead to our nation's surrender of world leadership. If they succeed, the abandonment of the cause of reform throughout the former Soviet Union will be only one among many destructive and costly consequences."

American Diplomacy

PS. The above quote is just an example of persistent American insistence on leading the world: for God's sake – WHY?!

READ: pages 15 – 17, my analysis of this pathological statement – right to American leadership on the World Scene, in Hamlet's Rambler, OK.

↑ This is the crux of the problem, this particular essay more of an APOTHEOSIS of my story, i.e. American domestic and foreign policy-amiss; moreover, also on HISTORICAL LESSONS never learned, never taken into account, including the astute Macedonian leader – Alexander the Great!

He also paid the price of being a bad student; never listened to "his" Oracle?!

We're pagans, Johnny: we Americans are probably the most irreligious people on the face of the Earth, pure pagans, hence all troubles in 'Stambul (i.e. an old Balkan cliché about Istanbul or Turkey: when Turkey's leadership in the capital didn't listen, it paid horrible prices, eventually loss of power, etc.)! This unprecedented illegal reach by the Barbarian Goth in our midst for worldwide leadership is at the ongoing core of the worldwide financial meltdown and many too many other ills!
